Note: The proposed numbering for the revised SEO and FoR is designed to avoid re-use of code numbers where classifications have been moved or deleted, but this numbering is not final and may be adjusted prior to finalisation of the review.

Instructions for Providing Feedback

Providing Comment

This draft is not final and the ANZSRC Review Steering Committee is allowing time for changes before finalisation of the new ANZSRC classification.

Feedback is sought on:

- Whether the revised classifications accurately capture the current Australian and New Zealand research landscape.
- Whether any errors or ambiguities have been introduced in the drafting process.
- Concordance between the old and revised ANZSRC classifications, including
 - where codes have been deleted, where would that research be classified in the revised ANZSRC?
 - where new codes have been created, where would that research have been classified in ANZSRC 2008?

Feedback should directly address corrections that are required to the draft classification to ensure the classification reflects research practices in Australia and New Zealand.

If you identify issues with the draft, please provide specific suggestions as to how they could be resolved. Please consider your response in the context of disciplinary research practice, the multiple uses of ANZSRC and the information provided in the ANZSRC Review Consultation Draft paper or the ANZSRC Review Consultation Draft: Indigenous Research supplementary paper, available on the ARC website.

To assist in a balanced evaluation of the draft, submissions in support of changes are also welcomed.

Submissions will close on 10 February 2020.

This will be the last opportunity for public comment on the ANZSRC draft. The final revised ANZSRC will be published in mid-2020.

Format of Submissions

Emailed submissions must indicate whether the submission represents the views of an individual or an organisation (and if so, which organisation).

The preferred format for responses to the SEO or FoR drafts is a copy of the draft classification Excel workbook with comments against specific codes in the 'Comments' column provided.

Submissions may be made public unless accompanied by a request that they not be made public. Submission information may be shared with Australian or New Zealand government agencies and other organisations for the purpose of the review.

Submissions may be made anonymously or pseudonymously, however in these cases the Review agencies will be unable to follow up on any details in the submission.

Submissions in response to this consultation draft are invited via email to:

- ARC-ANZSRCReview@arc.gov.au (for Australian stakeholders) or
- ANZSRCReview@mbie.govt.nz (for New Zealand stakeholders).
